BI-ANNUAL COLLEGE MAGAZINE

From the Chairperson's desk....

Our vision is based on hard work, open communication, a strong emphasis on team work and a high level of responsibility. This visionary culture allows and emphasizes our wards not only to adopt the present-day challenges but also individual responsibilities to the society and our nation at large. Learning should be based on doing things and not merely knowing things. Until and unless learning solutions relate to real life and motivate the learner to acquire and apply the knowledge, the whole process will remain superficial. Our institution has set specific objectives and planned activities for achieving excellence in all spheres of technical education.

I take this opportunity to express that every effort is made to improve the existing best services to bring out the best for the welfare of our institution and the growth of our students. With best wishes

Yours Smt. P.Sulochana

From the Director desk...

We cannot always build the future for our youth, but we can build our youth for the future."

I am quite pleased to learn about the forthcoming issue of the college magazine

Dear students, "You are the nation-builders. You are the movers of technology. You are the agents of change." It is our STRONG BELIEF that the years that you spend in SPSP would enable you to equip with leadership and managerial skills.

"You don't have to be great to start, but you have to start to be great."
With best wishes

Yours Mr.P.Praneeth

From the Principal desk....

The prestigious, Sri Padmavathi School of Pharmacy, since its inception in 1997 has made remarkable progress by following the mantra of student centric approach, whether it is in academics or in extra co-curricular activities. The institute possesses a state of art infrastructure with equipped laboratories, well stocked library and highly qualified faculty. We at, SPSP introduce our students to the Outcome Based Education and trained with skills in various disciplines.

In addition to developing excellent scientific and clinical based skills, the students are motivated not only to dream big but also encouraged to think unconventionally to face the challenges of the future and provide platform for Entrepreneurship.

Sports and other co-curricular activities are encouraged and the students are given every form of support to develop their talents in all fields. Our brand of education does not have narrow horizons, we believe in exposure. Our students are encouraged to widen their knowledge base and study beyond the confines of the syllabus.

With best wishes

Yours Dr.D.Ranganayakulu

Editor's message

A thought that has been enduring in mind when it becomes real; is truly an interesting and exciting experience. This news letter was one such cherished work that had its roots in the persuasion.

“Good leaders create a vision, articulate a vision and passionately owns a vision and turn it into a reality” - Jack Welch.

Coming to the collage magazine, I expect full cooperation from my fellow students and peers. New ideas, new sections in the issue of 2021 are always welcome by the Editorial Board. The editorial board is looking forward to make this magazine a vehicle for students to express their innermost thoughts.

I would like to thank all my editorial team members for helping me pull this through. I These contributions have required a generous amount of time and effort. It is this willingness to share knowledge, concerns and special insights with fellow beings that has made this magazine possible.

Thank you all!!

Dr.A. Srinivasa Charan

❖ New pharma innovations in 2023(January- June)

- Intensive R&D for personalized medicine

The pharmaceutical industry has always been highly R&D intensive, with Big Data playing a key role in expediting trials, drugs, therapies, and medical devices. In the coming months, this new technology will turn a large portion of its focus on personalised medicine. Companies such as AMPEL BioSolutions will be progressing with genomic platform technology that uses RNA analytics and machine learning to characterise a patient's genes and help practitioners make better clinical decisions. By doing this, medical professionals can determine the most effective course of action tailored to each patient.

- New achievements for the MedTech sector

It's no exaggeration to say that innovations that, pre-Covid19, may have taken decades to adopt are now being fast-tracked into global healthcare systems. This applies to 2023, where several new MedTech companies are preparing to debut products. An example is CAPS Medical, a MedTech company dedicated to developing a solution to treat a broad range of solid tumours using Non-thermal Atmospheric Plasma (NTAP). This minimally invasive procedure destroys cancerous cells without damaging surrounding healthy tissue. Introducing this procedure will positively impact cancer treatments, offering physicians new options for their patients.

- Nanoform drug development

The Finnish company, Nanoform, recently launched its first in-human study of a “nanoformed” treatment named Controlled Expansion of Supercritical Solutions (CESS®). This technology supports the formation of API nanoparticles directly from solution. The results of the study will be ready in 2023, and if the outcomes are as predicted, the medical sector will witness significantly improved drug performance. For example, the technology will enable chemicals to work faster, but also more efficiently according to a patient's personalised needs. This means a new and advanced therapy will be on the market for the pharmaceutical sales community, ensuring a competitive edge that continues to put the best patient care at the forefront.

- Drug re-purposing

Drug re-purposing is another innovation that will shift the pharmaceutical market in 2023. Organisations like DEBRA UK International are offering substantial grants to researchers dedicated to drug reprofiling. This financial boost into the market will ignite new innovations and support Drug Discovery and Drug Development teams that will be finalising studies. A popular topic for 2023 is the cancer drug Sapanisertib, which can potentially be used against malaria.
